

The city of love | Arianna Garcia di Zio

In Paris, known as the city of love, a young girl is going to discover the importance of relationships thanks to her friends, her cousin, her sister and, above all, a very special guy. Gabrielle's life seems to be perfect: she's surrounded by luxury and rich brands, with a beautiful and close family, a gorgeous house in the mountains. She's a talent for ballet and studying, she's really confident, proud and presumptuous. However, from her 17th birthday on, her life will be tumultuous and full of emotions, above all when she meets her new classmates, especially Dimitri. With him, she reaches a new stage of her life and discovers an unknown Paris. The Eiffel Tower will be the witness of her joys and mistakes, her love and new friendships. Gabrielle will overcome the obstacles of her life together with her friends, and the author will show us a girl's process of growth in an almost fantastic world. When she finds out the secret that her lover is hiding, her crush will soon become an adventure. Will her love overcome all barriers?

Dimitri is a free and attractive guy. With his black hair, his Gucci glasses and his Vespa; he's Gabrielle's dream. However, Dimitri, at first, won't notice her: Gabrielle, through her determination will open his eyes. Finally, Dimitri will understand how extraordinary, talented and beautiful Gabrielle is. They will slowly get closer, even though their relationship won't be easy: past, present and other people will interfere. Only their love, faith and friends will be helpful.

Arianna Garcia di Zio was born in Venezuela in 1994. In 2013, she moved to Barcelona, Spain, where she studied Marketing and Communication for Fashion. "The city of love" is the result of a childhood dream. When she was 15, she started writing a story dedicated to the place she would have wanted to see at that time: Paris.
